

Anatomy of Researcher

You already have what it takes to be a successful researcher. The goal of this assignment is to help you take inventory of all the things that make you an outstanding member of this research community.

Guidelines for visual:

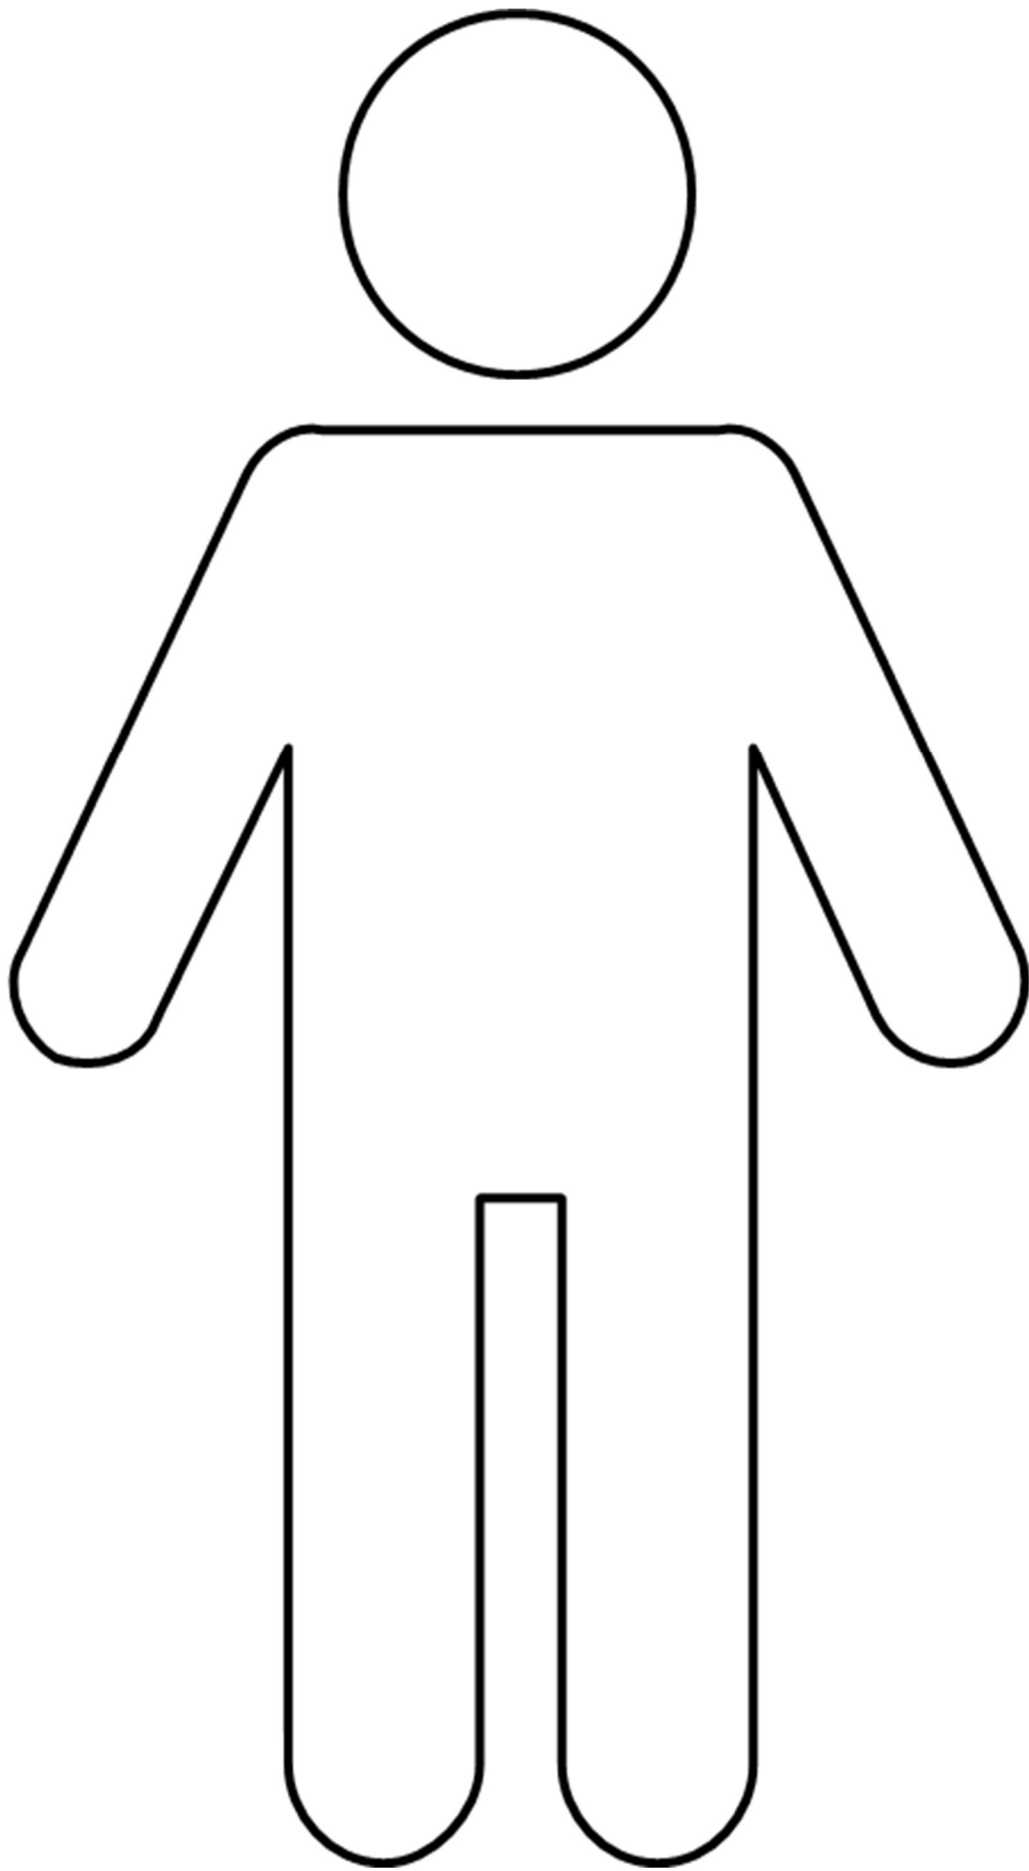

- First and last name included on front
- Hand drawn or digital (must print digital assignments to submit)
- Body outline provided is not required
- Colorful
- Neat
- Include at least 2 symbols per body part unless otherwise noted
- Predominantly image-based
- Size: from 8.5 x 11 in. to 11 x 17 – no posters, please
- No major text
- Other metaphors allowed but not required – no reproductive anatomy, please

Guidelines for writing:

- At least 500 words
- Professional, clean font (Times New Roman is not required, but a similar font is recommended)
- 1 inch margins
- Heading:
First and Last Name
Date
Class Period
- Grammatically correct
- Well-organized
- Engaging
- Avoid sentences such as “I chose to include a picture of my dog because he is always there to make me feel better when I have a tough day.” A better sentence would be “My lifelong best friend, my dog greets me with the happiest tail wags when I get home – erasing any evidence of a tough day.” The second type of sentence allows you to vary your sentences and word choice.
- Reasoning for symbol choices is well-established using specific evidence
- Addresses each symbol

Rubric

	Category	Description	Points Possible
Visual (20%)	Follows instructions	Size, first and last name, 2 symbols per body part, predominantly image-based, no major text	/4
	Neatness, use of color	Neatness reflects effort and planning. Symbols are colorful.	/8
	Creativity	Symbols are thoughtful, interesting, and engaging.	/8
Written (80%)	Grammar, punctuation, spelling, sentence structure, word choice	Writing conventions are used effectively and correctly. Writing ENHANCES the message of the narrative. Sentences are varied and vocabulary is appropriate for a junior in an AP class.	/8
	Engages the audience	Creative writing techniques and organization enhance the message, bringing the symbols to life.	/12
	Addresses each symbol	Every symbol is covered in the narrative.	/8
	Supports choices with specific evidence	Evidence from life are applicable and relevant to the symbols. Stories, facts, current events, feelings, and other life experience may serve as support.	/28
	Word count	Narrative is 500-1000 words with 10% flexibility	/16
	Font, margins, heading	Professional font choice, 12 pt, 1 inch margin, heading follows guideline.	/8

Anatomy of a Research Teacher

